Welcome to Tonight's Dinner Theater

A short drama by Jonathan Dorf

Performed by Crenshaw Theater Group

Not too long ago, we all found ourselves amidst chaos when Hurricane Ike consumed our community. We found that we had to survive and overcome. We became lost in the fight, and perhaps we forgot about humanity and the others in our own struggles. This play is a play not just about bullying in schools or among teens or children. We hope it serves to remind everyone the need for compassion, the necessity of treating others with humanity and dignity, but most importantly to overcome more than just a hurricane, to rise above regret. We hope that this play, even with our imperfections, reinforces that we are human and as living, breathing souls we deserve to stand up for what is right, just, and humane.

We have added student ideas, student poetry, songs chosen by our students to Mr. Dorf's dramedy.

I would like to introduce our first performers of this evening, Caitlyn Jackson who plays the character Helen, falls into the trap of changing for the wrong reasons, and Morgan Shiflett who plays the character Glinda – the director of the bullies, the trainer of toughening up the victims and the one that manipulates Helen in order to really teach her the need to be herself and not what others wish her to be. Caitlyn and Morgan have paired up to sing “Are You Happy Now” by Megan and Liz.
